GENERAL RULES

- Using the Internet for the duration of competition is not allowed for any searches other than the documentation.
- The high level description of how the code works should not change. The bugs should be solved using the same approach in which the question is provided (eg. if the program uses a recursive approach then it shouldn't be changed to an iterative approach.)
- Participants have to solve the question in the same programming language in which it is provided.
- The team with the maximum number of questions(bugs) resolved will be declared the winner. In case of the same number of bugs resolved, a team with less time will be declared the winner.
- In case a team finds some other bug in a program, even if they didn't find the bug which is asked, they wouldn't be counted as bug resolved. The bug(question) will only be counted as resolved when the exact bug is fixed.
- The event will be held in the Computer Science lab with VSCode installed, but if participants want, they can bring their own laptop as per their own comfort level. We understand coders have their IDE preferences.
- The use of any type of electronic devices like pen drive, HDD, etc. during competition is strictly prohibited.
- The event will start on time specified. Participants arriving late will not be provided extra time.
